VOL. IX. RENO, WASHOE COUNTY, NEVADA. TUESDAY, AUGUST 10, 1880. NO. 112.

They Wanted to Live in the Stars.

From the Burlington Hawkeye.

Very near us sat two young people. He wore the face of a man who shaves three times a day, and that white necktie had never seen the starlight before. There was pearl powder on the shoulder of his coat, and a tender, dreamy look and a lovely light in her eyes. They sat and looked up at the stars, and they didn't care for any solitary thing any nearer to this earth. "Mortimer," she murmured softly—"Mortimer," his name appeared to be Mortimer, though I couldn't learn whether it was his front name or his after name—"Mortimer, dear," she said, "if we could only live apart from this busy and sordid world, in one of yon glittering orbs of golden radiance, living apart from all else, only for each other, forgetting the base things of earthly life, the coarse greed of the world and its animal instincts, that would be our heaven, would it not, dear?"

And Mortimer he said that it would. "There, heart of my own," he said, and his voice trembled with earnestness, "my own darling Ethel, through all the softened radiance of the day and all the shimmering tenderness of the night, our lives would pass away in an exalted atmosphere above the base-born wants of earthly mortals, and far beyond the chattering crowd that live but for to-day, our lives, refined beyond the common ken—"

And just then the man with the goug came out. Mortimer he made a grab at Ethel's hand, and a plunge for the cabin door. Ethel just gathered her skirts with her other hand, jumped clear over the back of her chair and after him, and away they went clattering down the cabin, ran into a good, sweet old Quaker lady and banged a bad word out of her before she had time to stop it; down the stairs they went, collared a couple of chairs at the nearest table, feed a waiter, and opened the action without skirmishing. I am a man of coarse mould and an earth-born appetite myself, and I wouldn't live in a star as long as I could find a good hotel in America: but long, long before I could get seats at the table for my family, Mortimer and Ethel had eaten two bluefish, a little rare beefsteak, some corn bread, a plate of hot cakes, two boiled eggs, and a bunch of onions, and the waiter had gone out to toast them some cheese.

MORAL.

I have, during my wanderings, met several people who wanted to live in a star, where earth-born people with animal appetites couldn't bother them, and I have always found the safest place for an earth-born man, when the star-born soul started for the dinner table, was behind a large rock. Distrust the aspiring mortal who lives in a plane so elevated that he requires the use of a telescope to look down on the rest of us. And if he ever wants board at your humble table, charge him $15 a week, and feed him lots of soup, or you'll loose money on him.

A Rare Chance.

SALMON FISHING IN CALIFORNIA.

Taking salmon with the rod and line and artificial fly is one of the finest of sports for the angler. There is an excitement attending the hooking of a salmon with fine tackle that cannot be found in any other sort of fishing. There is nothing so exhilarating in any other sport as the tremendous rushes and leaps which a salmon will make after being hooked. English anglers are passionately fond of salmon fishing, and many of them cross the Atlantic every year to seek their favorite recreation in the swift streams of the Canadian coast. The Canadian government leases its salmon rivers to private individuals, and thousands of dollars are paid annually for the fishing privileges of single small rivers. Angling for salmon on the Atlantic Slope is all done with the fly. In the Restigouche and its tributary streams, which have a European reputation as splendid salmon rivers, it is not unusual for an expert angler, in the height of the season, to fish industriously for days in succession and never raise a salmon. What would some of the English experts who frequent those waters say to catching nine salmon before breakfast? Yet that has been done in the Cloud river of California this season. A San Francisco gentleman, who was recently fishing near the U. S. hatchery on that stream, took no less than nine salmon in the early hours of the morning. In taking these fish he did not move from a rock on the river bank where he made the first cast. The Cloud is full of salmon. Twenty or thirty of the fish can be take with rod and line, easily, in a day. There is so little uncertainty attending the sport there that anglers soon tire of it, complain that it is too laborious, and gladly exchange the heavier salmon rod for the eight ounce magical wand of split bamboo, to engage in the finer pastime of luring the gaily spotted Dolly Varden trout.

Salmon angling in the rivers of California is mostly carried on with bait of one kind or another. Shrimps and salmon eggs are principally used. In the short, clear streams of the coast, salmon will take the fly, as they do, for instance, in the Russian river. It has been supposed that in the turbid waters of the large streams of the interior, the fly would be useless, as the discoloration of the water would make it either invisible or unattractive. It has recently been demonstrated, however, that on the headwaters of the Sacramento, where the stream is clear, salmon will take the fly. Three salmon have been captured by that means this season. On the Cloud river, one of the tributaries of the Sacramento, within the past month, Myron Green, a local fisherman, B. Probert, Supt. of the Richmond mine, Eureka, and Fish Commissioner Redding each caught a salmon with the artificial fly. The salmon caught by Probert weighed about eight pounds. The hook used was exceedingly small, and was tied on a single strand of silk-worm gut fine as a thread, of a strength unequal to the lifting of more than a pound or two of dead weight. To land so game and strong a fish as a salmon, with such tackle, is a feat of which any angler may well be proud.

PECULIAR POLITICS.

A rather singular state of affairs exists just now in Washoe county politics. The only disaffected Republicans to be found are the old line stalwarts, who have always had the honors and who never wearied in saying that it would be impossible for them to be anything but fighting Republicans. This year all the Independents are perfectly at home in the party parlor. They are united in the belief that it will be a mistake to allow the Democracy to triumph, and they are at work heart and soul to defeat it. All the men who are Republicans from principle are satisfied, while there is not a little dissatisfaction among the old time manipulators. The Garfield and Arthur Club find but little favor in their eyes. They are so very much afraid of some "job" that they do not like to support it, and some refuse to join. There is not the slightest evidence that the Garfield and Arthur Club has any other purpose than to gain votes for the party. Its organization and its acts have been public. We would criticize it unmercifully if we believed there was any job in it, or that it was handled for any purpose but the good of the party. But such is not the case. It comes with bad grace for men who have always had their own way about everything to be captious and fault-finding. In a hard fight like the present one, we belive it to be the duty of every man who holds Republican principles to join heartily in this campaign, and work for the success of Garfield and Arthur. Let everything be done in the interest of harmony, and let all sides make concessions when necessary, and a grand victory will follow.

Putting a Note in the Wrong Envelope.

From the London Truth.

A lady of rank had received the honor of an invitation to dinner from the Princess Mary of Teck, for a day when she was engaged to dine with an old friend. She wrote two letters—one to the Princess in her sweetest manner, acknowledging the honor, etc., etc.; another to a friend, beginning: "Such a bore, dear! Fat Mary has invited me to dinner on our day, and of course I must go." To her horror she learned by the next post that her friend had got the letter for the Princess in her envelope. The mischief was done, and she went prepared to throw herself at the feet of her royal hostess, when the Princess met her with open hands and smiling face as she said: "Fat Mary is very pleased to see you, and hopes you won't find her a bore."

What a Rock Did.

From the Omaha Herald.

An enormous piece of rock recently fell in a canyon between Rock Creek and Chamberlain Flats, in Clicikitat county, W. T. It came from a ledge above a road, and nearly crushed a traveller and his horse. It then went over the precipice, flying through the air a distance of some 1,700 feet, went through a band of stray sheep below, numbering about seventy-five, killing outright about forty-five of them, while the rest were hurled through the air against the surrounding rocks, and maimed or injured.

PRELIMINARY EXAMINATION.

The Evidence of Seymour Lake in the Case of the State vs. J. H. Kinkead.

In the examination for embezzlement in the Justice court of J. H. Kinkead, he was represented by R. M. Clarke and C. S. Varian, and the State by W. M. Boardman and John Bowman. J. F. Alexander took down the evidence. Seymour J. Bryant (usually known as Seymour Lake) was the first witness. (Answers only will be given except where questions are necessary to explain the sense.) Was an employe of the Reno Savings Bank until June 23rd, as clerk; know Jas. H. Kinkead, also knew B. E. Hunter; was present on the 12th day of June at an interview between Kinkead and Hunter; L. C. Batchelder and Mrs. Hunter were present, heard part of conversation between Mr. Hunter and Mr Kinkead; heard only what was said in front room between Mr. and Mrs. Hunter and Mr. Kinkead; could not repeat the conversation; something was said about a deposit of $700; Mr. Kinkead wanted the $700 to apply on Hunter's account; Mr. Hunter said he would not do it because it was left there for the Bank of California when they delivered a certain deed; Mr. Hunter thought because the $700 was deposited that Kinkead should not charge him so much interest on his account; Mr Kinkead said that that would not follow because he could not loan the $700 out, as the Bank of California was liable to call for it at any moment; he said the money was there and he would like him to give him an order to apply it on account; witness was very busy and only heard a small portion of the conversation; they had a conversation in the back room before they transacted any business at the counter; did not hear any part of the conversation; don't know the amount of Hunter's account but it was overdrawn; there was some money to be left there by the California Insurance Company for Mr. Hunter; I think the money was applied on the account; do not know whether it satisfied the open account or not.

CROSS EXAMINATION

By General Clark—Went into the Bank's service July 20, 1877, and continued until suspension; duties were various; made entries of bills receivable, collection accounts, insurance and had charge of daily balance sheets. Mr. Batchelder was cashier of the bank; part of duty of clerk was to receive deposits and pay checks; Mr. Batchelder was not Cashier all the time from July 20, 1877, but was part of it; he was connected with the bank all the time in some capacity; part of Batchelder's duty was to receive deposits and pay checks; he had access to the funds of the bank and to the vault; M. C. Lake was President.

Here Boardman objected, on the ground that it was not cross examination.

When asked if the Reno Savings Bank was a corporation reputed to do a banking business, Mr. Bryant raised a smile by saying, "not at the present time." In the conversation of June 12 the overdrawn account was not the general subject of conversation, though it was part of it; he wanted Hunter to apply the insurance money as part payment of account; Hunter objected; the $700 was credited to the Bank of California on the books of the bank; a certificate of deposit had been issued to the Bank of California to be paid upon the presentation of the deed; I think I have seen it several times in the note pouch of the bank; the bank has never to my knowledge called for it; the deed never was presented; in the conversation Kinkead was not representing himself, but the Reno Savings Bank; have some knowledge of the original transaction in regard to the $700 between Hunter and the bank; I do not know where the arrangement was made; duty of receiving deposits and paying checks was frequently done by Mr. Kinkead; he had full and free access to the funds of the bank; Mr. Kinkead said that the bank had had no use of the money and no interest could be allowed; an accurate account of all money transactions was kept; the cash was counted every night, and a daily balance of cash was made; a record was made of this transaction and appears on the books.

On account of the lawyers wanting to attend the Convention to-morrow, further consideration of the case was postponed until next Monday.

A Reno Garden.

Reno's future [as the garden] of Nevada, is well illustrated by E. Reed's summer's work. Off three acres of ground he has shipped 3,000 pounds of currants, and expects to have 5,000 more. He gets eight cents a pound. They are the large cherry currants and are very popular with housekeepers. He has sold 700 pounds of gooseberries, and will have a large quantity of cucumbers, beans, and squashes as well as fruits. He ships to nearly all parts of the Great Basin, Bodie, Carson, Virginia, Ft. Bidwell and the camps along the Carson and Colorado railroad.

Fined $70 for Shooting at a Man.

The examination of Kenoff, for shooting at Daniel Frazer in Boca last Wednesday evening, was concluded in Truckee on Saturday. The evidence showed that Kenoff called Frazer a vile name, whereupon the latter struck him. Then Kenoff pulled a pistol and fired at Frazer, the ball grazing his head and lodging in a freight car in front of the saloon. Kenoff was found guilty and fined $70 with costs.

EXPOSING A HUMBUG.

An "Independent Slate Writer's" Dependence on Material Aid--Victimizing Grass Valley and Nevada City --He is Found out In Truckee and Departs In a Hurry.

Walter Price, "independent slate writer," as he announced himself, arrived in Truckee last Saturday night. The departure of Mr. Price on the following evening was not in itself remarkable. There is nothing very peculiar in the fact that he remained only twenty-four hours in Truckee. Some persons might think that circumstance were in his favor. What makes the brevity of his stay in that town of interest is the fact that his departure was hastened by reason of some disclosures which were the topic of conversation in Truckee last evening.

Mr. Price did not go to Truckee unknown and without recommendation. He bore with him written testimonials of his wonderful powers as a "slate writer," vouchers from many of the best citizens of Nevada City and Grass Valley. His performances at those two cities had filled the minds of their population with awe and amazement. Price would show them slates on which invisible "spirit hands" under their very noses had written messages from a world unknown. It was therefore not surprising that the majority of the people of the cities aforesaid regarded Mr. Price with a degree of respect that bordered closely on veneration. Price had set at naught the force of gravitation. Price had created a mysterious, unseen working force without consumption of any form of energy. Price had, in short, risen superior to all known natural laws, and was evidently on intimate terms with the spirits. It was little wonder then, that people should look up to him. Therefore it was that when Price appeared in Truckee and produced his credentials from Nevada City a thrill of expectation ran through the town and the true believers in spiritualism were thrown into a fever of expectation.

On Sunday evening Mr. Price gave "a sitting" to a number of Truckee people. Nearly all had come provided with double slates, between which spirit hands were to write mysterious messages. Pair after pair of slates was tried, but the spirits were apparently a little weak that evening, for they refused to write. At length a stranger handed in a pair of slates securely riveted together. The scratching of a spiritual pencil was immediately heard between them. All listened intently. When the noise of writing ceased, the slates were pried apart and their inner surfaces found covered with a long communication signed Fred Burkholder. The form of signature occasioned some surprise, because the deceased, while in the flesh, had never signed that way. He used to sign F., not Fred. Still, this unusual signature was not considered evidence of fraud. It would be nothing strange for a disembodied spirit to change its habits. But when Mr. Graham, stationer, identified the slate on which the message was written as two that he had sold Price, and identified the writing as that of a fun-loving daughter of Truckee, the audience began to feel that they had been duped. Suspicion rested upon the stranger on whose slate the message had been written, and he was openly accused of being a confederate of Price's. This he denied. The sitting broke up in slight disorder and there was at one time a possibility that a number of the slates would come into violent contact with the slate writer's head. The next day Price and his confederate quietly slipped away.

The Best Trained Horses in Existence.

In a lengthy mention of W. W. Cole's famous shows the Quincy Herald of May 22d, remarks: In the circus pavilion the same neatness was observed. The vast tent when filled with people was a grand sight, a spectacle worth paying to see. The performance was what Mr. Cole had pledged the public it would be. All that was promised was done. We would like to mention the various acts in detail, but want of space confines us to the prominent features. The six performing stallions were even better than represented; their feats are remarkable and are a good show of themselves. They are by far the best trained horses ever seen in Quincy. The leaps of the performing horse Humboldt are great and met with enthusiastic applause. The famous bicycle act in mid air was done just as promised. It is wonderful and startling and may be set down as the most remarkable feat ever accomplished in mid air. These features will positively be seen at Reno, Saturday, August 21.

A Murder Near Genoa.

Christopher Hill, a German, was found dead on the floor of his saloon at Jack valley yesterday. He had been shot through the breast, and was probably murdered for what money he had about him. The deceased was a harmless, inoffensive old man. The remains were buried at Genoa and a coroner's jury gave a verdict in accordance with the facts.

To The Masonic Fraternity.

The Northwestern Masonic Aid Association of Chicago is the largest and most prosperous in the U. S. It now numbers nearly 8,000 members—Gives $3,500 coin to the heirs of deceased Masons—has paid out about $150,000 in six years, to widows and orphans and the annual cost of membership is but about one-fourth the expense of an ordinary insurance policy. There is no more certain, reliable or economical way of establishing an immediate estate, or providing for the future than is offered by the above institution. Armed to the Teeth

Is a very common expression, but we think that armed to embellish and preserve them to a ripe old age is decidedly more appropriate. This can be done by keeping yourself supplied with a bottle of that splendid dentifrice, Fragrant SOZODONT, which will beautify the teeth and preserve them from the ravages of decay. SOZODONT contains no acids or gritty substances which injure the enamel but is composed of rare and antiseptic herbs, which have a beneficial effect on the whole economy of the mouth. 8-1-1m D&W

Stop That Cough

With a sample bottle of Kaiser's German Elixir. This is the most wonderful cough remedy ever introduced, being mild, yet positive in its action and soothing under all circumstances. Old and young may use it with perfect security. It is rich in the medicinal properties of tar, wild cherry and horehound. Ask your druggists, Messrs. Osburn & Shoemaker, about its merits. They sell large quantities of it and say it supercedes all others. The genuine bears the Prussian coat of arms and the facsimile signature of Dr. Kaiser on the wrapper and has his name blown in every 75 cent bottle. Samples 25 cent. Large size

MISCELLANEOUS.

REPUBLICAN PLATFORM.

Following is the text of the resolutions adopted by the Republican National Convention on Saturday, June 5, 1880:

Republican rule has restored upon a solid basis payment in coin for all the national obligations, and has given us a currency absolutely good and legal, and equal in every part of our extended country. It has lifted the credit of the nation from the point where six per cent bonds sold at 88, to that where four per cent bonds are eagerly sought at a premium. Under its administration railways have increased from 21,000 miles in 1860 to more than 82,000 miles in 1879. Our foreign trade has increased from $700,000,000 to $1,150,000,000 in the same time, and our exports, which were $20,000,000 less than our imports in 1860, were $264,000,000 more than our imports in 1870. Without resorting to loans it has, since the war closed, defrayed the ordinary expenses of government, besides the accruing interest on the public debt, and disbursed annually more than $30,000,000 for soldiers' pensions. It has paid $880,000,000 of the public debt, and by refunding the balance at lower rates, has reduced the annual interest charge from nearly $154,000,000 to less than $89,000,000. All the industries of the country have revived; labor is in demand; wages have increased, and throughout the entire country there is evidence of a coming prosperity greater than we have ever enjoyed. Upon this record the Republican party asks for the continued confidence and support of the people, and this convention submits for their approval the following statements of the principles and purposes which will continue to guide and inspire its efforts:

ENUMERATION OF PRINCIPLES.

First. We affirm that the work of the last twenty-one years has been such as to commend itself to the favor of the nation, and that the fruits of the costly victories which we have achieved through immense difficulties should be preserved. That the peace regained should be cherished. That the dissevered Union, now happily restored, should be perpetuated, and that the liberties secured to this generation should be transmitted undiminished to future generations. That the order established and the credit acquired should never be imperiled. That the pensions promised should be paid. That the debt so much reduced should be extinguished by the full payment of every dollar thereof. That the reviving industries should be further promoted, and that the commerce already so great should be steadily encouraged.

Second. The Constitution of the United States is the supreme law, and not a mere compact. Out of the confederated States it made a sovereign nation. Some powers are denied to the nation, while others are retained by the States; but the boundary between the powers delegated and those reserved is to be determined by national and not by State tribunals.

Third. The work of popular education is one left to the care of the several States, but it is the duty of the national government to aid that work to the extent of its constitutional ability. The intelligence of the nation is but the aggregate of the intelligence in the several States, and the destiny of the nation must be guided, not by the genius of any one State, but by the average genius of all.

NON-SECTARIAN SCHOOLS.

Fourth. The constitution wisely forbids Congress to make any laws respecting an establishment of religion, but it is idle to hope that the nation can be protected against the influence of sectarianism while each State is exposed to its particular domination. We therefore recommend that the constitution be so amended as to lay some prohibition upon the Legislature of each State, and to forbid the appropriation of public funds to the support of sectarian schools.

Fifth. We reaffirm the belief avowed in 1876, that the duties levied for the purpose of revenue should be so discriminate as to favor American labor. That no further grant of the public domain should be made to any railroad or other corporation. That slavery having perished in the States, its twin barbarity, polygamy, must die in the Territories. That everywhere the protection accorded to a citizen of American birth must be secured to citizens of American adoption. That it is the duty of Congress to develop and improve our water-courses and harbors, but we insist that further subsidies to private persons or corporations must cease. That the obligations to the men who preserved its integrity in the day of battle are undiminished by the lapse of fifteen years since their final victory. Their perpetual honor is and shall forever be the grateful privilege and the sacred duty of the American people.

THE CHINESE PLANK

Sixth. Since the authority to regulate immigration and intercourse between the United States and foreign nations rests with the Congress of the United States and its treaty-making powers, that the Republican party, regarding the unrestricted immigration of the Chinese as an evil of great magnitude, involves the exercise of the power to restrain and limit that immigration by the enactment of such just, humane and reasonable provisions as will produce the result.

Seventh. That the purity and patriotism which characterized the earlier career of Rutherford B. Hayes in peace and war, and which guided the thought of his immediate predecessor to him for a Presidential candidate, have continued to inspire him in his career as chief executive, and that history will accord to his administration the honors which are due to an efficient, just and courageous fulfillment of the public business, and will honor his interposition between the people and proposed partisan laws.

INIQUITIES OF THE DEMOCRACY.

Eighth. We charge upon the Democratic party the habitual sacrifice of justice and patriotism to a supreme and insatiable lust for office and patronage; that to obtain possession of the national and state governments and of the control of place and position, they have obstructed all the efforts to preserve the purity and conserve the freedom of suffrage; have devised fraudulent certificates and returns; have labored to unseat lawfully elected members of Congress, to secure at all hazards the vote of the majority of States in the House of Representatives; have endeavored to occupy by force and fraud places of trust given to others by the people of Maine, and rescued by the courage and action of Maine's patriotic sons; have by methods vicious in principal and tyrannical in practice, attached partisan legislation to appropriation bills; have crushed the rights of individuals, and vindicated the principles and sought the favor of rebellion against the nation, and have endeavored to obliterate the sacred memories of the war and to overcome its inestimable good results—freedom and individual equality. We affirm it to be the duty and purpose of the Republican party to use all the legitimate means of this Union to secure the perfect harmony which may be practicable, and we submit to the practical, sensible people of the United States to say whether it would not be dangerous to the best interests of our country at this time to surrender the administration of the national government to a party which seeks to overthrow the existing policy under which we are so prosperous, and thus bring destruction and confusion where there is now order, confidence and hope.

To Whom It May Concern.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT the undersigned has heretofore duly sold, delivered and assigned to P. A. MIDDLE-AGED MEN.

There are many at the age of thirty and sixty who are troubled with too frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and a weakening of the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examining the urinary deposits a ropy sediment will often be found, and some small particles of albumen will appear, or the color will be of a thin milkish hue, again changing to a dark and torpid appearance. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

Office Hours—10 to 4 and 6 to 8. Sundays from 10 to 11 A. M. Consultation Free. Thorough examination and advice $5.
